

Dear Ian I think the P.

I think the Persen house was cool. I like how old it was, 1661 that's a long time ago. That fire place on the 1st floor was cool but different. I wonder what it was like back in the 1600s.
The artifacts were cool too.

Sincerely

Manny

Dear Ian,

Thank you for teaching us about the Petersen house, and the artifacts.

I liked learning about the about the Petersen house.

Sincerely,

Sophia

Dear Ian

I've got some questions

The persen house
when it was attacked
did it have holes in the walls and burnt?

yes  or no

If I ever come back can we see the cellar and basement?

yes  or no

I see your really into history of Kingston your also really good at it good bye.

Sincerely
Haydn

Dear Ian,

Thank you for showing us the Bersen House. My favorite part was when you showed us the artifacts.

Sincerely,

Rhys.

Dear Ian,

Thank you for showing us around the Perren House. I have a question, did you tell us all the things they fixed in the perren house. And exactly how many cut: facts did they find in the houses. And I know that I asked to many questions but, did you like showing us around the Perren House.

Sincerely,
Ben

Dear Ian,

Thank you for giving us a tour of the Persen House. It was very interesting to see where some people lived long ago. I can't believe the roof on one of the rooms stayed on 200 years and it was only meant to stay up a year or two. I couldn't imagine staying in the 1st phase house with my family.

It's so small!!! I liked the dominos. It was awesome how they did that game in the 1600's.

Sincerely,
Lauren

Dear Ian

I had a very fun time there.
I found everything so interesting.
I was shocked when you brought us into the last room and told us the roof held up for 200 years.
I'm wondering who built the whole house after the fire.

From,
Veda
